

Code of Ethics

This code of Ethics in research sets forth general principles of ethical conducts to guide scholars towards the highest ideals of scholarly research. The code of ethics applies to all faculty members of the government college for women, M.A. Road. The principles are stated broadly in order to apply to scholars in various disciplines using various methods of inquiry and then specific application may vary depending on the content of the researchers.

The faculty of GCW M A Road hold that our profession as scholars entails an unqualified commitment to the pursuit of truth, and abiding deductions to promotion of public good and a sustained interest in mentoring students and fellow researchers.

Cognizant of our responsibility to the public, we hereby bind ourselves to the structure measure of integrity and the highest ethical standard to be writhing of the public trust.

- Principal of integrity and honesty.
- Compliance in the conduct of research.
- Accuracy of research data and report.
- Acknowledgment of sources of data / uniforms.
- Openness and responsibility in conduct and presentation of research.
- Safe guarding the integrity of the professors.
- Principle of justice and fairness.
- Recognition of intellectual rights. (I.e. Copy right patients).
- Promotion of the interest of community.
- Responsible dissemination of scientific knowledge to public.